The Taoyuan Airport MRT is the longest MRT system in Taiwan, and the only system that connects three municipalities. The Taoyuan Airport MRT has begun its third year of service, providing convenient transportation not only for airport passengers and commuters, but also for travelers seeking short trips and getaways. Thanks to the Taoyuan Airport MRT, tourist attractions along the line, vibrant and shopping-friendly as always, have become more well-known to people in northern Taiwan. This Ride with Taoyuan Metro & See More of Taoyuan brochure provides transport information and directions for Taoyuan International Airport and the Airport MRT. Select attractions near the Airport MRT in the four Taoyuan City administrative districts of Guishan, Luzhu, Dayuan and Zhongli are also presented. The many sights and commercial areas included will help the public to understand the charms of Taoyuan and the Airport MRT, and to explore every corner of Taoyuan via the MRT.

Popular attractions along the MRT line feature diverse and distinct themes by area. For example, along the A7-A9 Guishan Linkou section, shopping malls and department stores cluster to offer fun fashion shopping experience, while the A10-A11 Luzhu section features the Dexin Mansion and Kengkou Community Painted Village art and cultural sights. The A12-A17 Dayuan section features lifestyles of health and sustainability (LOHAS) with Hengshan Calligraphy Park and Calligraphy Museum, and Modern Dafudi; and the A18-A21 Zhongli section includes Mazu Art Village, as well as shopping areas for various traditional delicacies to help visitors indulge themselves in local charms. Along the Taoyuan Airport MRT lines, visitors can check in from their smartphones, take beautiful pictures, enjoy family time together, experience LOHAS, embrace vibrant youth activities, go shopping and satisfy their palates with gourmet food. All these themed attractions are easily accessible by the Airport MRT.

In addition, this informative and practical brochure provides bus information that makes trips to all the hot spots even easier. Visiting Taoyuan no longer requires driving all over. Now it only takes a ride to enjoy a day trip to desirable attractions or shopping malls. Hopefully, with this brochure, everyone can ride on the Taoyuan Metro to have fun and relax in Taoyuan.

Taoyuan International Airport Transportation Guide

Leisurely Walking

Take a stroll in the tasteful, entertaining recreation areas and enjoy the public facilities at Taoyuan International Airport. Feel at home in themed waiting lounges, unique in all the world. From the Departure Hall, to the waiting lounges; from getting off the plane, to embarking on a new journey — whenever you walk into the airport, even just to pick up a friend, each moment becomes a wonderful memory.

Stylish Shopping

Through attentive design details, Taoyuan International Airport connects passengers with fashion as well as local specialties, to create an enchanting journey for visitors as soon as they set foot within the airport. With unique art decorations that echo the product displays, the entire airport has been transformed into an art museum, both fulfilling and delicate.

Zhongping Road Story House

The Story House occupies about 100 m<sup>2</sup> of land. It was built in 1930 as a Japanese-style duplex dormitory for public servants; the Story House carries profound family feelings and memories of the past. The building's roof tiles, windows, window frames, sliding doors, and beams are all the original materials from the period of Japanese occupation. The traces of local residents' lives during that period can be observed throughout the House's well-preserved condition. After restoration and reorganization, the story house was integrated with culture and art displays, and cultural experiences. Tour guides are available for groups, to help visitors peek into what life was like in Zhongli from Japanese rule to the agricultural era.

Mazu Art Village

Given the prestigious name of "Taoyuan's Village of the Generals", Mazu Art Village is the second military dependents' village preserved based on the Cultural Heritage Preservation Act. An independent, self-contained living space is created by the checkerboard street system and fish-bone layout. Public facilities in the surroundings include an activity center, auditorium, lawn, basketball court, and pavilion. These form a self-sustained, semi-isolated settlement. Later rebuilt as a "quasi-museum", Mazu Art Village aspires to preserve and rejuvenate dependents' village culture, and promote the cultural and creative movie industry. Activities such as movie festivals and the Military Dependents' Village Cultural Festival are held; and the activity center of Mazu Art Village has been renovated into the Taoyuan Art Cinema, a standard Dolby movie theater that seats 76. The theater has promoted several classic Taiwanese movies, and holds movie artifact exhibitions in an effort to preserve the village in a more refreshing way.

Taoyuan Public Library Longgang Branch

Listed as the most beautiful "organic" library in Taiwan, the Longgang Branch meets the need for book loans and reading. The building itself is also worth appreciation. The design's use of wind, light, water, and green answers city dwellers' longing for nature. The simple shape of the library is like a giant book; the massive wall surfaces have been left blank. The visual impact resembles that of an art gallery, offering travelers a visual feast before they step into imaginative realms of words.

Many wooden elements are used in the space, almost imperceptibly helping one to take a relaxed pace. Like reading under a tree, one cannot help but feel serene and at ease. In addition to an emphasis on spatial layout and interactions with the surroundings, the library includes green building techniques such as a rain recycling system and solar panels. The library is certified as a Diamond-Grade green building.
